

YKK AP America Partners with Statre Corporation to Expand Commercial Products Business in Michigan

Michigan's AEC and contract glazing community will now have local access to YKK AP America's entire portfolio of building products

AUSTELL, Ga. — March 1, 2010 — YKK AP America expands its presence into Michigan today by partnering with Statre Corporation, an independent manufacturer's representative. Through this partnership, Michigan's architects, engineers, and company customers now have local professionals to support YKK AP America's commercial fenestration products.

“We have serviced the Michigan area for over forty years now and affiliate only with firms we have the utmost confidence in,” said Ted Wantuck, owner of Statre Corporation. “YKK AP has a remarkably reputable and well-respected brand, and one which our customers are already excited about. YKK AP's fenestration products are a perfect complement to our current line of glass and panel products, and will allow us to expand our offering to include high quality, energy efficient windows, doors, and glazing systems.”

“By partnering with Statre Corporation, we are providing our current customers with local, more convenient access to our products while opening up additional opportunities within the region,” said Oliver Stepe, senior vice president of YKK AP America. “YKK AP and Statre Corporation are both committed to providing the highest quality fenestration products that increase property value, save energy and are aesthetically appealing, and we look forward to a longstanding relationship together.”

YKK AP America offers a wide variety of commercial and residential fenestration products to the building industry, including entrances, storefronts, curtain walls, window walls, sun control systems, windows and sliding doors. The company expanded its enerGfacade commercial product line at Greenbuild 2009, and has plans to expand its hurricane-resistant and blast mitigation product line, ProTek. All YKK AP products are created in facilities that are environmentally-friendly and ISO 14001 certified, a standard which reduces the environmental footprint of a business as well as decreases the pollution and waste a business produces.
